IAV CIRCLE

A 7-DAY GUIDED JOURNAL

Uncover Your Gift

Seven days, a few honest questions, and the gift that was there all along.

by Isha Vazquez · host of Let's Talk for a Bit

Welcome. I'm so glad you're here.

For more than 25 years I built a career in corporate America, most recently as an Executive Director at a financial firm. From the outside, it looked like I had it all figured out. But some of my most important gifts were sitting quiet, waiting for me to notice them.

Today I spend my time doing what lights me up: sitting across from people, asking good questions, and watching them discover what they're capable of. Through my podcast and the IAV Circle, I've seen it again and again. Everyone has a gift. Most of us just haven't been asked the right questions yet.

That's what this journal is for.

HOW TO USE THIS JOURNAL

Give yourself 10–15 minutes a day for 7 days.

Write freely. There are no wrong answers, and no one is grading you.

If a question feels uncomfortable, stay with it a little longer. That's usually where the good stuff is.

Missed a day? Just pick up where you left off.

By Day 7, you'll have your own Gift Statement: a few honest sentences about what you bring to the world, and one step to start sharing it.

Let's begin. — Isha

Day One

Noticing

Your gift often shows up in the things people already come to you for.

1 What do friends, family, or coworkers ask for your help with most often?

2 What compliment have you heard more than once but brushed off?

3 What comes so easily to you that you assume everyone can do it?

Today I noticed:

Day Two

Energy

Your gift lives where your energy rises, not where it drains.

1 Describe a time you completely lost track of time. What were you doing?

2 Which activities leave you more energized than when you started?

3 If you had a free Saturday with no obligations, what would you choose to spend it on?

My energy rises when:

Day Three

Story

The moments that changed us often point straight to what we're here to share.

1 Write about a moment that changed the direction of your life.

2 What did that moment teach you that you could teach someone else?

3 Who showed up for you during a hard season, and what did they give you?

My story taught me:

Day Four

Feedback

Sometimes others see our gifts more clearly than we do.

1 Text three people you trust: "What's one thing you think I'm really good at?" Write their answers here.

1.

2.

3.

2 What surprised you about their answers?

3 Where do their answers overlap with what you wrote on Days 1–3?

Others see in me:

Day Five

Fear

Every gift that stays quiet has a reason. Let's name yours gently.

1 What has kept you from fully sharing your gift?

2 Whose voice do you hear when you doubt yourself? Is that voice telling the truth?

3 What would you do with your gift if you knew no one would judge you?

The story I'm ready to let go of:

Day Six

Amplify

A gift grows when it's shared, even in small ways.

1 Who in your life could benefit from your gift right now?

2 What is one small way you could share your gift this week? (A conversation, a post, an offer to help.)

3 What support would make it easier to take that step?

This week I will:

Day Seven

Commit

Look back at everything you've written. Your gift has been here the whole time.

1 Reread Days 1–6. Which words or themes keep showing up?

2 Finish this sentence: "My gift is _____, and I share it by _____."

3 How will you feel 90 days from now if you keep sharing your gift?

YOUR WORDS

My Gift Statement

You did it.

Seven days ago, you started with a question. Today you have a Gift Statement in your own words. That's not small. Most people never stop long enough to ask.

Here's what I know from years of conversations: a gift grows fastest in good company. When you share it with people who see you, encourage you, and hold you to your next step, it gets louder.

That's why I created the IAV Circle.

An intimate membership for personal development events, a space to keep amplifying the gifts our conversations bring to light. Inside, you'll find:

- Small-group conversations where your voice is heard
- Personal development events designed to help you take the next step
- A community of people who celebrate each other's wins

KEEP THE CONVERSATION GOING

Join the Circle
IAVcircle.com

Listen in
Let's Talk for a Bit · @letstalk_iavpodcastcircle

Share it
Post your Gift Statement and tag me. I'd love to celebrate you.

Your gift was always there. Now it's time to let it be seen. — Isha

This journal is for personal reflection and growth. It is not a substitute for professional medical or mental health care.